Mere Mention.

The complete census of the city will be given in Friday morning's daily.

The annual district Methodist camp meeting begins at Belleville, August 18. Ypsilanti has always had a large representation.

A number of the artful maidens of town have organized a sketching club, and for the remainder of the summer season the natural scenery about our town will have to suffer.

Four hundred and fifty tons of coal is what the State Normal School burns a year. It has taken three weeks to stow that amount away in the school basement.

The proprietors of the Ypsilanti Mineral Spring are putting in a 350 horse power Corliss Condensing Engine, weighing over 45 tons, to meet the demand of their business.

St John's Parochial School opens Monday, Aug. 31. New sidewalks have been put down and other improvements made about the buildings.

The walks about the Normal are being replaced, the eaves are being cleaned out, but no one knows who is to be master of the house yet.

Lester Sutherland, a five year old son of Chas. Sutherland, the M. C. baggage master, while playing cook with some other children in a play house Thursday, was severely scalded about the legs and feet by the overturning of a vessel of boiling water in which they were cooking potatoes.

This will be the seventh year that the farmers of the surrounding counties have held an August picnic at Whitmore Lake. Saturday, Aug. 22, is the date for this years' merry making. Among the speakers is Mrs. J. T. Sunderland of Ann Arbor.

The walks made of a composition resembling flag stone in appearance, put down a year ago by Chas. King, Prof. Daniel Putnam and others before their residences, have proved total failures. The material cracks and shales off very generally.

At St. Luke's Sunday School they have a novel and sometimes embarassing way of making special contributions. Each scholar and teacher, upon the Sunday after their birthdays gives to the general fund as many pennies as they are years old. There are, it would appear, more incentives than one for a young lady to remain sweet sixteen for several years. It is more economical.

The case of Van Valkenburg vs. Lafflin took up the most of Justice Griffin's time Monday. The litigation grew out of financial complications attendant upon the former's renting a farm to the latter. The jury after an hour's deliberation returned a verdict of no cause for action.

The Ypsilantian.

THE ARCADE.—There were fuily six hundred people at the rink last night and a large number on the floor. The bicycle exhibition of balancing, fancy, double and single wheeled riding by C. H. Smith and Miss Rouchelle was good and well received. They appear at the rink again this evening.

FOUNDERED.—Nobody went to see his Child at the Opera House last night. The dismal remembrance of the night previous and the meagre appearance of the bar[illegible]ts was too much for the troupe a[illegible] performance was given. To-day [illegible]mpany dismembers and floats in [illegible]ent directions.

HEALTH SEEKERS.—In another column will be found the list of persons who have registered at the Bath House during the past few days. This list does not include the persons who are being treated at Hall's bath house or those who are using the Owen mineral water, but will give our readers a comprehensive idea of the wide popularity already attained by the mineral water of Ypsilanti.

BASE BALL.—The Ypsilanti club played the Monroe organization at the latter place last Friday. The game was not called until 5:15. At the end of the third inning the score was 2 to 3 in favor of Monroe and stood at that until the ninth inning when the Ypsi. boys made four runs, winning by 6 to 3. It was the closest game the club have played.

—Tuesday, Howells vs. Ypsi. at the fair grounds here.

YESTERDAY'S F[illegible]—The alarm sounded yesterday morning a few minutes after ten, the occasion being the breaking out of a fire in the roof of Judge Joslyn's house on South Huron street. Before the department could get water upon the flame a large hole was burnt along the roof of the north wing main body of the house, notwithstanding the efforts made to check it with buckets. All of the furniture and contents of this part of the dwelling was removed before damaged much by water. The firemen put the fire out a few minutes after they took water and left the house apparently all right. At about half past two fire which had smouldered between the partitions broke out through the roof of the south wing and destroyed the roof of that part be[illegible] it could be controlled. The family had been moving back the furniture since the morning's blaze and discovered the second outbreak, but found it too fierce to control. The damage cannot be as yet exactly determined, but foots up to the hundreds, covered by insurance.

More Census.

The third ward comes next in the rounds of the census taker; it lies west of the river, between Ellis street and the north border of the city. It has 251 houses which are the homes of 273 families, making up 1,148 people, of whom 61 are colored. The state census last year gave 1140 people in this ward. There are 69 young unmarried ladies between 18 and 25, and 10 that are sweet sixteen. The ward has nearly 300 school children and has three important schools within its bounderies.

Ward number four extends from Cross street, east of the river, to the northern limits of the city. Last year the census showed 722 people in this ward. This year we found only 691, a falling off of 31. The population is divided into 167 families, and contains but 6 colored people. There are 42 marriageable maidens and about 200 school children in this ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lucking returned from their visit to Toronto this week.

Walter Cook has accepted a situation at Charlevoix and became a resident of that town this week.

J. R. Fisher, the architect of the "unpremeditated" column of the Detroit Evening Journal was in the city yesterday unpremeditating.

The Rev. L. O. Lee, professor of systematic theology in Marae, Turkey, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church next Sunday morning. Mr. Lee was a classmate of the Congregational pastor, and is known as a gifted preacher.

The location committee of the Lenawee, Hillsdale, Washtenaw and Monroe G. A. R. association have fixed upon Brazee's grove at Devil's lake as the place of holding the grand encampment this year. The time has not yet been definitely determined, but it will either be the last week in August or the first week in September. It is expected that Commissioner of Pensions, Gen. Black, and Gen. John A. Logan will be present.

THE RACES.

The Splendid Speeding of the Second Day.

Close and Exciting Contests—An Ypsilanti Horse Wins the Second Race in Three Straight Heats—Notes and Incidents.

The gloomy prophecies in regard to rain yesterday morning, heard on the grounds Monday evening, were not fulfilled, as the day was as fine in every respect as the most exacting could desire. The crowd on the grounds was larger by half than on Monday, the new grand stand being comfortably filled and the ladies' stand containing a goodly number.

The races were interesting and exciting in the extreme. The special feature of the afternoon's speeding was the performance of Little Joe, an Ypsilanti horse, who won the 2:28 trotting race in three straight heats.

THE FIRST RACE

There were seven starters in the first race, the 2:40 trot, Orphia and Montague Boy, whose names appeared on the score card, failing to fill. Topsy was given the pole and gained a good lead by a few illegal jumps. She continued to lead the line during the first half, but was overtaken by Lady M. the favorite, on the last half, and by Ed Mack who gained second place by a splendid spurt on the finish.

The second heat in this race was made interesting at the start, through the drivers of Huron Boy, Frank S., and Glass Gow being fined five dollars each for insisting on coming up to the wire ahead of the pole horse. The protection given Lady M., however. did her little good, as she broke before reaching the quarter-pole and barely escaped being distanced. Glass Gow passed under the wire first but was set back to fourth place for running. Huron Boy, who finished second, was given first place, Ed Mack second and Frank S. third.

The third heat was a close and exciting one. Huron Boy flew into the air at the first turn, Frank S. and Ed Mack pulling to the front. Throughout the entire heat there was a close race between the last named horses, first one leading and then the other. The six horses were well together at the finish, all pulling for a money position. Ed Mack and Frank S. passed under the wire neck and neck and the heat was a dead one between them. Glass Gow was given third place and Lady M. fourth.

Glass Gow took the lead at the beginning of the fourth heat and held it until coming down the home stretch on the last round. Lady M., who had been doing splendid work throughout the heat, then pulled ahead and finished winner by a neck, Glass Gow taking second place, Ed Mack third and Topsy fourth.

Fifteen dollars was won by the Association before the horses got off in the fifth heat—Ed. Mack being fined ten dollars for repeatedly pulling ahead of the pole horse, and Topsy five dollars for purposely lagging behind. When they were finally got off Lady M. went to the front and retained her position until the finish, winning the heat and race. Glass Gow came in second, Topsy third and Ed Mack fourth. Ed Mack was awarded second money, Frank S. third and Glass Gow fourth.

The result of the race is as follows:

CLASS 2:40—PURSE $300.

Lady M.	1	6	4	1	1—1
Ed Mack	2	2	0	3	4—2
Frank S.	5	3	0	5	5—5
Glass Gow	4	4	3	2	2—4
Topsy	3	5	6	4	3—3
Huron Boy	6	1	5	6	0—6

Time 2:36½, 2:34¼, 2:37, 2:33¼, 2:33¼.

THE SECOND RACE

Was the 2:28 trot for a purse of $400. Little Joe, a horse owned by an Ypsilanti man, C. W. Lewis, former proprietor of the Lewis House, was the favorite, especially with the ladies in the grand stand. Maggie K. took the lead and held it so well during the first quarter that the friends of Little Joe began to fear for their favorites. On the last quarter he began to push ahead, however, and at the end of the first half was several lengths ahead of Maggie, a position he retained to the end of the heat.

The second heat in this race was the most interesting and exciting dash of the day. Little Joe, the Ypsilanti horse, had the pole and took the lead. Wade Hampton challenged his right to the front, before reaching the quarter-pole, however, and passed under the wire at the end of the first half several feet ahead of the favorite. The little Ypsilanti horse began to gain slowly during the first quarter and came down the home stretch neck and neck with Hampton, and just before reaching the judge's stand moved to the front and passed under the wire winning by half a neck. The result of this heat was received with the most tumultous enthusiasm and applause. Wade Hampton was given second place, Big Ike third and Irene fourth.

The third and last heat of the race was also a very exciting one. From the time they left the wire until they passed under it at the finish Little Joe and Wade Hampton were engaged in a desperate struggle for the lead. Hampton showed splendid speed and could he have maintained the gait he would sometimes strike the result might have been different. The splendid pace and clock-work gait of Little Joe seemed to discourage him however, and Joe won the third consecutive heat by half a neck. Hampton was given second money, Maggie K. third, and Big Ike fourth. The following is a summary of the race:

CLASS 2:28—PURSE $400.

Little Joe	1	1	1—1
Wade Hampton	6	2	2—2
Maggie K.	2	5	4—3
Big Ike	4	3	3—4
Irene	3	4	5—5
Ham Morrison	5	6

Time 2:29¼, 2:30½, 2:30¾.

THE THIRD RACE.

The third contest was a running race, mile and repeat, for a purse of $200. There were six entries, Alcina, a Florida horse, being the favorite among the prophets. When the word was given she jumped to the front and retained the lead throughout, finishing in 1:46, remarkable time for a half-mile track. Billy G. was a close second, Baritone third and Ellexor fourth. Tilly S., an ambitious Ohio horse, was distanced. Some time was spent before the horses were started in the second heat. Alcina took a position in front of the ladies' stand and for a time refused to return. When the word was given, Alcina took the lead and held it until coming in on the last half, when she was passed by Billy G. Ellexor also pushed up at the close and took second place; Alcina third, Baritone fourth.

According to the rules of the Association only the winners of the first two heats were allowed to start. Billy G. and Alcina were therefore the only starters in the third heat. Alcina had the advantage of the start and got a lead that she maintained until the first quarter was passed. Billy G. then began to close the gap between them and passed under the wire on the first round a neck in the lead, and increased the distance to several lengths on the next round. The three heats resulted as follows:

RUNNING RACE—PURSE $200.

Billy G.	2	1	1—1
Alcina	1	3	2—2
Ellexor	4	2	0—3
Baritone	3	4	0—4
Tilly S.	Distanced.

Time 1:46, 1:47½, 1:48½.

The Association has merited much better patronage than it has received thus far, if splendid and closely contested races be that upon which merit is granted. But it is confidently expected that the attendance to-day and to-morrow will more than equalize the moderate attendance of the past two days.

A $7,000 hotel is to be erected immediately on the north bank of Whitmore Lake, near the station of the Grand Trunk Railroad. The building will be of brick, two stories high, 80x100 feet. Mr. Dunlap, of Whitmore Lake is said to be the party who is to erect the building.

Cal. Vroman and a party of juveniles under his charge, consisting of Rannie George, Louis and Farley McLouth, John Weston and Frank Basset, started Wednesday for Lansing by the overland route. They, with a boat and camping outfit, will make the entire distance and return by wagon, spending a week or more camping on the Grand river. Prof. and Mrs. McLouth will go by rail and join them at their camping grounds.

Monroe Commercial; The two-mile race at the rink Saturday night, between Ward, of Ypsilanti, and Kline, of Ann Arbor, was close and exciting. Ward seemed determined to do his best to win and put forth his best effort. Kline lost a quarter of a lap on the first mile, but worried his adversary more on the second mile, compelling him by the hardest work to win by half a lap at the end of the second mile. It was the fairest and prettiest race yet given and gave the best satisfaction. Time, seven minutes.

THE DAILY YPSILANTIAN.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUG. 13.

IOWA'S PROBLEM.

The problem of prohibition in Iowa is yet by no means worked out, and the question of its effect upon political parties seems just now more problematical than ever. Many people in all parties have seemed to see pretty clearly the overthrow of the dominant republican party in its banner state, through that means. All are familiar with the struggle over the adoption of prohibition as a party measure, by the republican party of Iowa—how, after the whole people of the state had declared by a majority of thirty thousand in favor of a prohibition amendment, and that amendment so adopted had then been found by the Supreme Court to be technically faulty and invalid, the republican state convention then pronounced the declared purpose of the people to be its purpose, and pledged itself to engraft into the statute the principle that clerical error had defeated; how the democratic party antagonized that position, and denounced prohibition as oppression; how the greenback party, whose members had largely united with the majority of the republicans and a few of the democrats in adopting the amendment, then formed alliance with the democrats to overthrow the republicans for partisan advantage, and nearly the whole German contingent of the republican party abandoned their fealty and joined the coalition; and how this formidable combination reduced the republican majority in the state from sixty thousand to two thousand, captured several Congressional districts, and reduced the republican strength in the Legislature from two thirds to a bare majority of one or two members. This was what happened to the republican party in Iowa from the adoption of prohibition, and it did look as though it had as an organization committed suicide. Upon that narrow margin, though, it did go forward in the Legislature and redeem its promise to the letter, adopting a stringent prohibition statute—something that never in the history of legislation was before accomplished upon a legislative majority so slender, either in behalf of a moral reform or of any other strongly contested issue.

Now, after a year's trial of the statute, with but partial success, and no success at all in the river cities where the German element is supreme; with the principle of prohibition seemingly in less esteem than before the passage of the law, and with probable weakening of many who had supported it, the democrats and greenbackers have reaffirmed their coalition and agreed to go into the canvass with a fusion ticket; and it seemed as if they might wholly sweep the republicans from power in the state. But here begin to appear symptons of disintegration among the fusion forces equal to that which so weakened the republicans, and over the same troublesome subject. The democrats, in attacking the republican position of prohibition, did so with the proposition of high license. In a state which has just voted thirty thousand majority for prohibition, and with allies who had largely voted for the prohibition amendment, they could not hope to succeed upon any lower plane. Very high license, with very stringent regulations, were necessary propositions to hold elements of strength that they must have. But those are now threatening the adherence of other elements equally necessary. The elements of which Col. Eiboeck of Des Moines, proprietor of the Staats Anzeiger, is the representative, demands the lowest kind of low license, with the most liberal sort of liberal regulations, and threatens revolt against the party proposition, and especially against the greenback prohibitionists upon the fusion ticket. Gillete, nominee for Lieutenant Governor by the greenback wing of the coalition, is a pronounced prohibitionist, and his party supporters are largely prohibition in sentiment; and they are equally restive under the demands and threats of the Eiboeck faction. It is a grotesque proposition that Eiboeck, who openly advocated forcible opposition to the law, should be expected to support Gillette, or to accept the democratic declaration for high license which he declared in his paper a year ago to be "ten times worse than prohibition"; and he represents a powerful faction of the Germans who are now in the fusion movement.

There is abundant reason, therefore, to expect that the democratic party of Iowa and its fusion allies will find the temperance problem as threatening an obstacle to their success as it has seemed to be for the republicans; and that in attempting to steer between the rock of prohibition and the quicksands of free whisky, they may fall into a trough of the sea more fatal than sailing head on to the rock proved to be for the republicans.

"Personal Memoirs of U. S. Grant."

This book is written in the first person, entirely by Gen. Grant himself, and is the only one which he has ever written, or in which he had any interest whatever. We emphasize this that the public may not be deceived by cheap imitations which are sure to follow this work, some of which will be so ingeniously advertised as to appear to be the genuine. John W. Wise, of this city, is the only authorized agent for Washtenaw County.

Over One Thousand of the best books, by the best authors, can be bought for 10 to 20 cents each, at Rogers', next to P. O. Call for catalogue.

WORK OF THE PARIS POLICE.

The Late Prefect Tells How Every Class of Society is Watched.

[Article by M. Andrieux.]

The secret agents of police in Paris are provided with cards, which, in cases of danger, will insure them the protection of the regular police. They frequent clubs and other meetings, the wine shops of the exterior boulevards, and houses and streets of ill-fame, and also attend at the senate and chamber of deputies during the parliamentary session. In the morning they prepare their reports, generally speaking at the prefecture, in the archives of which is to be found detailed accounts of the career and character of hundreds and thousands of individuals in France. These records form colossal pyramids in the lumber-rooms, and are alphabetically arranged according to the names of the persons whose histories they chronicle, so that when any one comes suddenly to the front or is compromised in any criminal affair the librarians can have no difficulty in laying their hands on the official summary of his or her antecedents. So complete is the collection that the name of the most obscure rag-picker in Paris has its chronicle as well as the president of the republic.

In regard to these secret agents of the second category, M. Andrieux is as explicit as he is indiscreet. "A man's coachman," he says, "a man's mistress, a man's barber, a man's valet may belong to this battalion." Many saloon-keepers and house-porters are actually compelled, under pain of forfeiture of their licenses and positions, to act as the spies of the prefecture. Several journalists, who are the bitterest political opponents in opposition newspapers of the powers that be, and not a few frantic orators who "do" the stump at Socialistic gatherings and denounce the criminality of capital amid the cheers of the workingmen, are in the pay of the police authorities. The high-born and respectable Imperialist, who mixes in Prince Napoleon's society and calls him "My Lord," "Your Majesty," and sports a violet in his button hole on the occasion of the anniversary mass for the repose of the soul of Napoleon III, at the Church of St. Augustine, keeps up his gorgeous equipages and pays for his Bonapartist dinner out of the public funds.

The simpering Royalist who carries about with him over his heart a tattered fragment of one of the old white flags of France and who is gushingly tender and enthusiastic in his defense of the throne and altar, is "rigged out" at the expense of the state, and is paid to spy on the movements and actions of the Royalists, just as his Bonapartist colleagues to look after the Imperialists.

Each of these agents must have some ostensible trade or profession at which he may occasionally employ an hour or two of his time in order to avert any suspicion that may be entertained of him. Thus every class of society in Paris is under the most active, although the most insidious, vigilance.

[Pixey Winter in New York Graphic.]

I think I do not exaggerate when I say that it is waste of time for anyone without money to try to be fashionable, at least if he knocks at the New York entrance. If he has money and knocks loudly he can be, no matter who he is. Intrinsic value is set on nothing but money. There are a few who put in a faint plea for family, and they try to keep together to form a clique, but they do not impress anybody but themselves, unless they have money; then they can be arrogant. Talent and cleverness never can do it. Beauty alone cannot do it, but money will make beauty more beautiful. A large number can into society, but they cannot be fashionable. They may give balls, but they can't publish a list of cremes at them. They may give dinners, but no one will struggle to go to them.

If those without money would realize this it would ease years of trouble. Yet there are families in New York who have been made fashionable in spite of themselves, because they have money. They have never shown a desire to be conspicuous or to be publicly known, and yet their movements are always of interest, their sayings impressive. There is one type of motherhood and fatherhood within that charmed circle which will explain the whole matter to us. The reign of self is acknowledged; it is tacitly admitted there. Nothing else could be understood. Self must have very good manners, though—must personate all of the virtues, but self continues self still; it is alone the fashion all the same.

What She Needed.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

"I am going down to Santa Barbara," said Mrs. Verdiver. "My health has given way completely and I must recuperate."

"Why do you go to Santa Barbara?" said her friend, Mrs. Malaprop.

"The sea air and the quiet and the change will do me good," answered the invalid languidly.

"Now, my dear, you take my advice," burst out the voluble Mrs. Malaprop. "You don't go to any Santa Barbara, or Monterey, or any of those seaside places; you go straight away up to the springs. I'm an old woman. I've had just such fits as you've got now, and what you want is a course of some water that has some strong analysis in it."

Sunday School Lozenges.

[Exchange.]

The secretary of Mr. Spurgeon's Sunday school recently made the following suggestion: "It would be a very good thing if the Scripture texts given to the infants were to be printed on lozenges instead of upon the little bits of pasteboard, as at present; for not only would the gifts be more highly valued, but it might be truly said: 'How sweet are thy words unto my taste.'"

The Slate Industry.

[Chicago Herald.]

The magnitude of the slate industry in this country can be imagined when it is stated that the total amount produced of roofing slate alone is 500,000 squares per year. A "square" is about 100 square feet, or sufficient to cover a space 10x10 feet when laid on the roof. It covers the same area as 1,000 shingles.

"Cocoa" Gunpowder.

[Chicago Herald.]

The British war department has just introduced the "Cocoa" gunpowder, recommended by a committee sent to Germany to examine various qualities of explosives. It has a mean pressure per square inch of sixteen and a half tons, and a velocity at the muzzle of 2,010 feet per second.

Russia's Sulphur.

[Exchange.]

The attention of the Russian government has just been drawn to the existence of extensive deposits of sulphur in western Siberia, and an expedition is to be sent to examine them. Europe's supply of sulphur is now chiefly obtained from Sicily.

The Finley Wheat.

A new variety, is unusually hardy, standing the severest winter under late seeding; bald head; tillers well and is from seven to ten days earlier than any other variety, yielding, under favorable circumstances, from 40 to 50 bushels per acre.

Ypsilanti's Wonderful Water!

Its Curative Properties as certain to Revolutionize the Custom of going abroad for Mineral Bathing purposes as that American Institutions have Revolutionized the World Politically.

READ AND LEARN

That, no matter what your disease may be, whether produced through blood poison or climatic influences, it CAN POSITIVELY BE

CURED.

THE YPSILANTI MINERAL SPRING.

This Mineral Water has now been on the market three years, and its success is without a parallel in the history of wells in the United States. Its sales have been a continual, steady demand, from Maine to California. The introduction of its as a valuable water was an accidental trial for cancer, supposed to be incurable. The cure was completed in two months, and shows no signs of return. The cases of cancer have been followed by hundreds with an almost universal success. The remarkable results in cancer cases have surprised the medical fraternity, and given relief the sufferers never supposed could be obtained. Over 100 car-loads and thousands of barrels have been shipped to all parts of the country. The local demand has grown to immense proportions.

The demand for bathing purposes, in addition to the shipments, kept the pumps at the well working to their utmost capacity. A larger engine soon became a necessity, which has been completed during the past year.

Owing to this unlooked-for demand the Mineral Bath Company drilled a new well for their bath-house, and struck a similar water at 959 feet in solid rock in the month of September, 1884, thereby relieving the original well from the draught necessary. Water from both wells is used at the bath-house, giving it facilities never before offered. The New Bath-House has now been open over one year. Its success has proved far beyond the expectations of its owners and it has been remarkable in curing diseases of the system in cases where a cure was supposed to be impossible.

The cases where the patients were brought on stretchers or crutches are counted by hundreds, and now walk the streets without a shadow of their former infirmities.

The commercial travelers seek the bath-house, and find relief as found in no other way. Scarcely a day passes that from one to ten of this valuable class are not found taking a rest and enjoying the mineral baths, that become necessary from their exposure to the inclemency of the weather and hotel life.

Situated on the great trunk lines, Michigan Central and Lake Shore railroads, Ypsilanti has become a well-known "place of rest."

Herewith We Give A Condensed Statement of A Few Sufferers.

YPSILANTI, April 9, 1884.

I came to Ypsilanti on the night of Thursday, March 27, suffering from inflammatory rheumatism in the wrist to that degree that I could get no sleep. Friday night, after one bath, I slept well; and on the next day the disease went to my knees and ankles. Monday I was again able to walk, and since then I have improved rapidly, until now, after taking twelve baths at the Ypsilanti Mineral Bath House, I am perfectly well, and able to leave for business. A. BRIDGMAN, Berlin, Wis.

A. A. ELLIOTT, Superintendent Bathing Co. DETROIT, MICH., Sept. 7, 1884.

DEAR SIR.—Had been troubled with inflammatory rheumatism for five years, but since taking a course of only twelve baths at the Ypsilanti Mineral Springs, the disease seems to have entirely left me. Can heartily recommend the water to all. Yours very truly, CHAS. W. PARKER, with Chas. B. Root & Co., Detroit.

MOORMAN & CORNWELL. YPSILANTI, Mich., Dec. 11, 1884.

It is with great pleasure I add my testimony in acknowledgement of the great benefit I have received during a fortnight's stay at the Mineral Bath-House. When I arrived, a sufferer from paralysis, heart troubles, indigestion, and general prostration of the nervous system, a marked improvement was perceptible after taking the first bath, and after taking the third was able to enjoy a night's natural sleep, which to me had been a stranger far months. At this writing, after using the water for two weeks, I find myself enjoying better health than at any time since my first attack of paralysis, over five years ago. Very respectfully yours, HENRY SLADE.

CHICAGO, Ill., December 24, 1884.

I have been completely cured of sciatica during the past three months by the use of Ypsilanti Mineral Water. I had been troubled to a greater or less extent for two years. C. D. PAINE,
Manager of Chicago Religious Papers for Lord & Thomas.

87 SHAWMUT AVE., BOSTON, Mass., October 7, 1884.

YPSILANTI MINERAL SPRING:

DEAR SIRS.—I feel it my duty to write and give my testimonial to the world that those afflicted with cancer and tumor may know what the Ypsilanti Mineral Water has done for me. Four months ago I was sent home from the hospital with a tumor in my side and one in the womb. The physician told me that there was no cure for me; that an operation would be sure death. My friend, Mrs. Moore, brought me some of the Water to try, and I got relief at once. I have continued to use the Water, and followed your directions, and to-day I have no tumor in my side, and no trouble with the other. I am able to go to my work every day. I sincerely recommend the Ypsilanti Mineral Water to be the best medicine in the world for those afflicted as I was. You have only to give it a fair trial to be convinced of its merit.
MRS. MATTIE ANN FORESTER.

YPSILANTI MINERAL SPRING:

I would say in relation to your Water, after giving it a fair trial, that for man woman or child with disordered stomach, or billious disorder of any kind, there is nothing on earth like it. H. H. EDSON, 2,721 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

BUILDING 60x138, with L 20x50.

THE YPSILANTI MINERAL BATH HOUSE

YPSILANTI, MICHIGAN.

MOORMAN & CORNWELL, Props. A. A. ELLIOTT, Superintendent.

This establishment is a model of elegance and neetness, comprising FORTY-SEVEN large, well ventilated bath rooms, kept clean and neat, elegant parlors for ladies and gentlemen, smoking and reading rooms, and all modern conveniences. The whole building is heated by steam, and each room is connected with the office by electric bells, while the force of employees is large and all needed attendance can be given when required. It is located in the heart of the city, one block from the principal hotels. Good board can be furnished adjoining the building, and there are a few large, well ventilated rooms, heated by steam, in the bath house, for the accommodation of patrons of the establishment.

MR. A. A. ELLIOTT, the superintendent, has had nine years' experience in mineral bath treatment, and, with a corps of competent assistants, the public can feel assured of receiving the best of care under his charge.

YPSILANTI MINERAL WATER

The water from the Ypsilanti Mineral Springs has been introduced to the public during the past two years. It has been tried and tested in a variety of diseases and has given universal satisfaction. The great strenght of the medicinal properties of the water makes it the cheapest and best ever offered to the public.

The Mineral Water, with its alkaline reaction, and its sulphate of Sodium, Potassium and Magnesium, its Bromide, Sulphur and Iron, is both a powerful tonic and an eliminator of miasmatic and blood poisons from the system.

It will remove Cancer, Erysipelas, and those bilious conditions which produce Inflammation and Fevers. It equalizes the circulation and regulates the heart's action. It purifies the blood by opening the pores and removing impurities, and revitalizes and tones the muscles and nervous system. We find it most effective in the cure of

SCIATIC AND MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM,	SLEEPLESSNESS, NEURALGIA, LUMBAGO,
PARALYSIS, INFLAMMASORY RHEUMATISM,	NERVOUS PROSTRATION, RHEUMATIC GOUT,
CATARRH OF THE HEAD AND STOMACH,	KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, INCLUDING BRIGHT'S DISEASE,
INDIGESTION, WITH TORPID LIVER,	SKIN DISEASES, ERUPTIONS, AND SALT RHEUM.
DYSPEPSIA, ST. VITUS' DANCE,	CONSTIPATION, THE ROOT OF MANY DISEASES,
GENERAL DEBILITY, SICK HEADACHE,	ALCHHOLISM,

PROTRACTED CONVALESCENCE FOLLOWING EXHAUSTING DISEASES.

Mineral water Baths, adapted to each case, are important to the treatment of Milk Leg, Prolapsus Uteri, Uterine Inflammation and congestion and all diseases peculiar to women. They relieve the sufferer from the distressing nervous prostration and weakness which accompany such troubles.

Inflamed eyes with Congested lids, Skin Diseases, Psoriasis, Eczema, Salt Rheum, etc., will yield to the power of the baths and the internal use of this mineral water in most cases.

We note also immediate relief from the paroxysm of Asthma and Hay Fever, with a speedy benefit in Bronchial Affections and diseases of the Throat and Lungs. The water has also been used with excellent results in cases of Piles, cures being affected in many cases.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUG. 13.

Our Bachelors.

Who They Are and Where They May be Found.

Their Personal Peculiarities and Prominent Characteristics.

BY A SPECIAL REPORTER.

JABEZ BARTHOLOMEW WORTLEY

bobbed up serenely in the misty days of eighteen hundred and forty-eight, which makes him thirty-seven years of age. It was on the wild Atlantic that Jabe first saw the light, and since then it has been an unsettled question whether he is an American born or an Englishman, or whether he should not have become a rover on the high seas. The first thing we know of Jabe in Ypsilanti is his service under the Democratic administration, carrying mail from here to Monroe. Once he stopped at an orchard to appropriate a few apples and has never seen the horse, mail bag or government pay roll since. He tried farming, but they set him to shucking walnuts in the spring, and that disgusted him. He worked for a while making tombstones; but this proved too grave a trade for his social disposition. At length after a trial in the Farmer's store, he entered the clothing business with his brother on Congress street, where he now presides with grace and conscious dignity. He has eyes of a heavenly blew, such as the heavens blew a week ago Monday. He is built on the aldermanic plan scale ten ounces to the square inch. He has an educated taste for oil paintings, attends all the churches and the salvation army. Ran for Mayor, would have got there if he had had three more votes. He made a vow that if he were not engaged in '84 and married in '85 he never would be. Insomuch as the house he recently bought has been sold it is safe to say that his wedding has been declared off.

JOHN BATCHELDER

Is one of the best looking clerks on Congress street, he is a blond of the strawberry variety, with eyes of heaven's own blue. He has not yet seen a quarter of a century, but knows the value of a quarter. He understands the millinery business, having been traveling salesman for a wholesale Lansing firm. The future Mrs. B. will not be able to hoodwink him on the value of a new bonnet. At present he kneels before the grace and beauty of Ypsi., in the capacity of a shoe clerk in Sherwood's. He is in no hurry to make a change in his relations.

JOHN BENNETT

Can hand a lady from a carriage with the grace and attention that years of experience on the hurricane deck of a hack have given him. He is the youth and vivacity of the firm of Olp & Bennett. He has just arrived at the age of citizenship and votes a straight republican ticket. He is one of our youngest bachelors and one of the most uncertain of remaining in the ranks.

HARRY CAMP

Has a penchant for the stage; he has been engaged with numerous companies from John McCullough to Pat. Rooney. Harry is the possessor of the euphonious agnomen of "Busty"; a name, which when applied to him by the boys makes him wild, but has, singularly enough, a soothing effect when used by one of gentler sex. He is resolved to stop being a single man just as soon as everybody shall be agreeable to the change.

HIRAM CAMP

Comes from a well known and prominent family. He is not a dude, but could be if he thought it worth while. He is twenty-two years of age, a brunet, the owner of a fine mustache, an admirer of the fair sex, takes life easy and don't want to be called bachelor any longer than he can help.

P. R. CLEARY,

Of Cleary's business college can, without doubt, write the best penned love letter of any man among us, whether he has made them as affective in other regards or not we are unable to say. True, they have not yet accomplished the desired result. The professor has worked his way from a boy, knows how to get along with young people, is antinonsensical, benevolent, and thirty nine years of age. We should like to have him bound to Ypsilanti tighter than the ties of a business college can.

W. A. MCANDREW,

Well known to the girls as "Will," and in literary circles as "Twam." Has handsome red cheeks, blue eyes, and the cutest little mustache in town. We cannot recommend him to the affections of our young ladies, however, without making known the most serious impediment to his future happiness: During the past few years he has suffered severely from periodic, acute attacks of original opera, and although there is no record of where this malady has proved fatal, the sufferings caused by it are sometimes very severe, as many of our readers who have witnessed the effects of the disease can testify. He has just reached manhood as measured by years, but in experience and wisdom is an old bachelor.

ED. CORNWELL

Has seen twenty four summers. He is a great boatman, electrician and general scientist but for all that is socially inclined. He spends his summers in the east but has returned in time to be classed among his brothers in these columns. Ed. is well known in town, a lover of the roller skate, a little forgetful at times, and contented to remain a cealibat for a little while longer.

HARLOW WELLS

Has black hair and dark eyes, is thirty years of age, and one of the grocery firm of Wells & Fisk. All other partnerships have thus far had no attraction for him even in view of the admirable example set for him by his colleague—Fisk. He plays ball, is fond of practical jokes, and no one knows how to enjoy a bachelor's life as Well's Harlow.

CHAS. W. M'CORKLE

Is a lawyer. Notwithstanding this he is universally regarded as a fine fellow. He has been a bachelor twenty seven yrs is a favorite with the older girls some of whom have lain awake thinking of him. He is a graduate of Princeton college, rather delicate in constitution, has enough Scotch in him to make him determined. He is a musician, fond of boating, doesn't dance in Ypsilanti, likes to drive a good horse, likes to have his own way. Laughs a quiet little laugh but enjoyes it. He is social, agreeable and entertaining. One of our rising young men.

FRANK BAILEY.

From the wilds of Manchester in the summer of eighteen hundred and eighty, came this above named bachelor in our midst with the intention of going to school and keeping boarders. Since then he has been one of us, and now, but little shows the marks of twenty-seven years thumping from this pugilistic world. Frank has black hair, black whiskers well under way, and a way of speaking that shows him to be a man of great care and precision. He is one of the staff of the business college in town and not sure whether he will remain a jolly bachelor or not.

WALTER FULLER.

This young and susceptible man may be found during the day in the joiner shop in the old barracks at the depot. Evening finds him generally on this side. He is twenty-five, goes to the skating rink regularly. Has black hair, dark eyes, and is rather short for his size. He is in the matrimonial market.

FRED WITMIRE

Is a bachelor and always has been since we can remember. He is of German descent and lives in the fifth ward. Has a musical voice and a trained ear, sings well, and enjoys it. His pathetic songs are touching enough to melt iron in McCullough's foundry where he is at present engaged for that purpose. Fred is twenty-four.

GEO. MINOR

Is nearly forty years of age, says he is a bachelor and don't care a snap who knows it. Geo. drives the American Express Co's wagon and has done it for five years. He loves a game of Pedro with the other boys, would make a harmless husband for some Michigan girl. He would insist, however, that in case of making any change he would still continue to have his meals regularly.

JOHN STILLER

Toots a brass horn in the Ypsilanti cornet band in the evening and pulls the reluctant needle through the harness leather in C. L. Yost's shop. John is little, but oh my! would be an easy husband for some woman to manage, that is if she were perfectly agreeable. He is over thirty, very polite, grows a drooping mustache and is one of the best looking men in the band.

DONALD FRAZER

Came from Novia Scotia to Michigan, haying in his heart at that time the intention of marrying a girl from the Wolverine state, but was so embarassed by the plentifulness of desirable companions in this fertile country that he has not yet been able to make the choice. Donald is a smith, a trade about which several pretty love songs have been written. Donald can sing lots of them. To any inquiring fair one who may be looking for some one on whom they might lavish their tender affections we would mildly suggest, "what's the matter with Donald?"

DOUGLAS HARRIS

Smiles on the elderly maidens from behind the soda water counter of Frank Smith. He may be characterized as tall, slender, with an inquisitive turn of mind, and with an eye to business.

JOHN GOODSPEED.

That good looking young man of twenty five, standing in front of the shoe store yonder, with black hair, black mustache and black eyes, is John Goodspeed, the terror of small boys on the street. His tasts are somewhat literary in their turn and John might have been a professor if he had kept on in his original line. Such a man is not likely to remain single very long.

WILLIAM FELL

Fell into the city first in the capacity of a Normal student, he is now doing duty as a clerk in a Congress street clothing store. William is young and not yet acquainted with all the young ladies of the city. He was twenty-five at last accounts. His chief pleasure is to sit in the shade and read novels. Who is the first to speak for William?

Walking and Swimming.

[Herald of Health.]

Every healthy person, man or woman, should be a good walker, able at any time to walk six to twelve miles a day at least, and double that when gradually brought up to it. The points to be attended are, to see that the walk be brisk and vigorous, not of a loitering or dangling kind; that there be some object in the walk besides its being a routine constitutional—i. e., not like the staid promenade of the orthodox ladies' school, and, if possible, in pleasant company; that there be no tight clothing, whether for the feet or the body, which will constrain or impede the natural movements of the limbs and trunk; and that the walk to be taken as far as possible in the fresh country air.

In regard to this latter particular, although the towns are increasing so rapidly as to make it almost a journey to get out of them on foot, still we have so many suburban tramways and railway lines that in a few minutes we can find ourselves in the country, where the air is fresh and pure. Whenever an opportunity presents itself for a little climbing in the course of a walk, it should be taken advantage of. We gain variety of muscular action, as well as increase the exertion, and we get into the realms of purer air and fresher breeze at the same time. What may be considered as the weak point in walking as a mode of exercise is the comparatively small play which it gives to the muscles of the shoulders and chest while it is still less for those of the arm. This should be compensated for by the use of light dumbbells or Indian clubs, or some other form of exercise which brings in play the arms and shoulders.

One of the forms of exercise which requires the action of the muscles of the arms and shoulders, as well as those of the trunks and legs, is swimming. This, however, for many reasons, cannot be used as a means of exercise except by a few, and at certain seasons of the year, but where possible it should be practiced. The great pity is that boys and girls do not learn it, as a rule, while at school. Every large town should be well provided with swimming baths, and if it could be made compulsory for scholars at a certain age, say 12, to learn to swim, it would be a great advantage to all, and also be the means of saving many lives.

An Association's Singular Origin.

[Chicago Herald.]

The origin of the famous association of the Misericordia, in Florence, is singular. About five centuries ago, when Florentines were busy with the woolen trade, many porters used to gather on the Piazza di San Giovanni. It seems that cursing and swearing were as familiar to those old porters as to the modern ones.

One day a poor porter, Lucas Borsi, trying to reform his swearing companions, proposed that they should pay a fine for every oath, the money to be put into a box, and that with this money a litter should be bought to carry poor people fallen in the streets to their homes or to the hospital. The porters liked the idea, and in time their association spread all over the city. The little compagnia grew in numbers and in power, many wealthy men leaving large legacies to it. Now it owns a large amount of real estate and no man of mark passing through Florence declines to register his name among the brothers, if possible, such is the honor attached to its membership.

A Remarkable Relic.

[Venezula Cor. Inter Ocean.]

This little narrow room which the governor occupies is the same in which the declaration of Venezuelan independence was signed, and upon its walls hangs a picture commemorating the event. Strangely enough beside this painting of the decree of liberty hangs a heavy gilt frame containing the banner which Pizarro carried in the conquest of Peru—the rarest and most interesting relic in all South America. It is about four feet square, of heavy pink silk, faded almost to white, embroidered with gold by the fair hands of Queen Isabella herself, the design being the combined escutcheons of Arragon and Castile, in an excellent state of preservation. It is with the keenest irony of contrast that this age-begrimed banner should hang in the room where the first voice was raised against the tyranny it represented; here beside the document, scarcely legible now to the eye but to the mind speaking with mighty force the long story of Spanish oppression, and illustrating the first feeble and unsuccessful protest.

Electricity as a Railway Motor.

[Chicago Times.]

The following claims of superiority over steam traction are made for electricity as a railway motor: Absence of smoke and cinders; it obviates all danger from explosions; it does away with the necessity for heavy locomotives and for tenders, and allows of lighter bridges and tracks; the rails are not worn out so fast, as a perfect rotary motion is communicated to the driving wheels, and there is no pounding or jumping of the motor; no obstruction can throw the train from the track, as the current is neutralized by the obstruction itself, and the train comes to a stop before the obstruction is reached. A broken rail or an open drawbridge would break the current, so that the train could not reach the point of danger; by a proper arrangement of connections it would be impossible for any train to proceed to a section already occupied by another train, and collisions would be impossible.

Our Salt Industry.

[Industrial America.]

There are in Michigan 117 firms engaged in the manufacture of salt with the aid of machinery, and 4,500 covers for making solar salt. The manufacturing capacity of the wells is 3,875,000 barrels. The amount actually manufactured during the year ending Dec. 1 was 3,252,175 barrels. In Marine City a solid bed of pure salt was lately struck at a distance of 2,000 feet.

Breathing Trough the Nose.

[Medical Journal.]

The reason that it is not healthy to breathe through the mouth is, that the air is better warmed when taken into the lungs through the nose, owing to the heat of the blood in that organ, and because the capiliary projections in its cavity catch all the deleterious matter and throw it out.

An Innovation.

[London Truth.]

With respect to the senseless habit of buying new clothes in order to mourn for a deceased relative, an Australian states that both in Australia and New Zealand the announcement of deaths in the press are often followed by the words: "By the wish of the deceased, his relatives will not wear mourning."

Iron Bridges for Brazil.

[Chicago Herald.]

Iron bridges are sent from this country to Brazil now at the rate of about four a month. They are shipped in sections, and, when they reach Brazil, are put up in place of wooden bridges on the Brazilian highways.

Ypsilanti, Michigan,

—AND THE—

DISEASES IT WILL CURE.

This water does not lose its virtue by age. The odors are caused by free gases which in time escape, but their escaping does not in the least deteriorate the virtues of the water. We are thus enabled to ship it in packages of any size, from one gallon to fifty. This water has none of the odors so common to strongly impregnated mineral and sulphur waters. It can be taken to your homes, and if used according to directions will in our belief give equal if not than any bathing establishment in the world. We do not ask you to go to great expense, either in visiting high-priced sanitariums or securing costly professional treatment, but put our price within the reach of all, and assure the public that home treatment will do the work.

Better Results!

MINERAL WATER

From the Owen Well will cure any case or disease usually treated with Calomel or Mercury, and in small doses, as a tonic, equals Quinine, but does not lead to nor necessitate habitual use.

Skin Diseases

which baffle the Allopathist or Homeopathist are easily handled. All troubles of the digestive or urinary organs are alike cured. Thus we have the Most Powerful Medicine Known!

Yet, its properties are so nicely equalized it does not create pain in any form, and can be used, full strength, by a child or the most delicate person.

ACTUAL TESTS AND TRIALS TO WHICH HUNDREDS OF OUR CITIZENS CAN TESTIFY.

YPSILANTI, JAN. 1, 1885.

T. C. OWEN, ESQ, Forest Ave.

DEAR SIR.—Relative to your inquiries as to my experience in the use of the Owen Mineral Water, I desire to say I have very impartially though thoroughly tested its medical effects and am fully satisfied of its curative properties in many classes of disease. As to its being an universal panacea for all the ills of human life, my experience does not accord with others who look on it as being a cure for everything that effects the body. I have tried to use it in those cases in which both my common sense and medical observation dictated that its use would prove beneficial, I must say in most instances with very gratifying results. I have used it locally in catarrh, goitre, ulcerated sore throat, leucorrhea, prurigo and diphtheria, and in all with decided benefit both internally and as a topical application; its use in hemorrhoids has been very successful. Its effects in unloading the portal circulation and thus relieving the engorged hemorrhoidal veins has been very marked and the more recent the case the more beneficial the results.

There are many more conditions in which I have no doubt its curative properties would be well marked and which would naturally suggest themselves to the physician's mind.

Very respectfully,
EDWARD BATWELL, M. D.

YPSILANTI, AUG. 6, 1885.

T. C. OWEN.

DEAR SIR.—I have suflered from Dyspepsia for twenty years. Indigestion, acidity and the various annoyances incident to that infirmity. I was persuaded to try the water of your well. Having tried ninty and nine remedies with little or no benefit, I began the use of the water without any faith. I found immediate relief. Its use to me is invaluable. I am grateful to the friend who urged me to the trial and am prompted to do all I can to convince others of its value as a remedy. If this letter will serve that end, make what use of it you think best.

REV. DR. L. M. WOODRUFF.

We are now preparing Mineral Salts of our water, for general use, and have gone to great expense in procuring suitable machinery, and hope to have samples ready by August 15.

YPSILANTI, Jan. 15th, 1885.

T. C. OWEN.

SIR.—I have used the water from your well in several cases of skin disease with good effect. In a case of acne indurata that had resisted the usual treatment for several years, was speedily relieved by frequent bathing. I take great pleasure in recommending this water as a valuable remedy in cases of cutaneous eruptions.

Yours Truly, D. A. POST, M. D.

YPSILANTI, OCT, 30th, 1884.

T. C. OWEN.

SIR.—Having been greately benefited by the use of mineral water from your well, I desire to express my gratitude to you in the following manner: I may purchase of you an article without a fixed commercial value and pay a nominal price for it, afterwards it proves of great value to me. Still there is a principle within us, an element called conscience, which speaks and says you are under obligations that can only be discharged by sincere gratitude and expressed by the lips, but when the article is offered and given freely without charge, the obligation is increased and I would not be among the number (if there are such) who quietly neglect to mention the benefit received in the donor's name.

I do not expect to check the advance of age or the ravages of time. Both are surely and steadily pressing upon us with the aches and pains incident thereto, but we will take the Owen Mineral Water and keep comfortable as long as we can.

My ailments have been numerous, viz; dizziness, weakness of the digestive organs, pain in the left side, trouble with the kidneys, sciatica and piles of long standing of about thirty (30) years. The middle of July last I commenced using the Owen Mineral Water. I began with a large draught and it had a chthartic effect. My head and stomach were relieved and I was advised to try it externally and did so, and was relieved of all the aches and pains as above enumerated and hope that I am permanently benefited and will continue the use of the cures.

CHARLES THOMPSON.

The Salts will be much more convenient to transport than the water, and its medical properties, we believe, will be as valuable as are those of the water.

YPSILANTI, June 2d 1885.

T. C. OWEN.

Dear Sir.—I have been troubled with hemorrhoids or bleeding piles for sixteen years. The trouble was brought on by heavy lifting in the lumber woods. I was so bad I could hardly do any work. I could not ride in a wagon without a great deal of pain and would at times thoguh keeping very quiet get very weak. About one year ago I came to you, and you gave me three glasses of your Mineral Water to drink and a gallon jug, the next day my pains were all gone, and in three days, by using from the jug of water my troubles were all gone, and though a year has passed I have had none of the troubles since. I believe I am entirely cured. I wish to say to anyone reading this letter, who may have any doubts about the cure may come and see me and I will refer them to my neighbors, who have known me for years and have had an opportunety to see and know something of my suffering and I believe if there are any doubts about this wonderful cure it will soon be dispelled. Yours reapectfully,

SAMUEL RUSSELL.

YPSILANTI, May 28, 1885.

T. C. OWEN:

DEAR SIR.—I have suffered with asthma twenty-two years. Eight months ago you told me you thought you could help me, and as I had tried everything that could be heard of, I was willing to try your mineral water as directed, which was at times very severe, but it seemed to have a beneficial effect which was an inducement to continue, so I did continue using hot applications and drinking in natural state, and to my surprise in about three weeks I was enabled to sleep all night and feel refreshed in the morning, which was turning this earth-life from hell into heaven, as I had been twenty-two years without a whole night's sleep, without taking fumes or some narcotic which only gave temporary relief. For two years of the time during the night I was obliged to sit on the floor with a chair to my back, suffering untold agony, but now I go to bead and sleep all night, and though it may not be believed I have no more of those terrible spasms and am perfectly free from symptoms of asthma. I make this statement that anyone suffering from this terrible ailment may try the effects of the Owen Mineral Water, hoping it will have the same result and cure them as it did me.

JOHN KIMBEL.
